The School of Management has been an international leader in business education, research and knowledge transfer since 1963. As one of a handful of business schools worldwide with the coveted triple-crown accreditation, we have created an environment of world-leading management education and research where everyone can flourish and make a difference to the world. We received our first accreditation in 1970 with AMBA, followed by Equis in 2000 and AACSB in 2012.

We have an international outlook; our first international partnership was established in 1989, and since then we have created links across the world within our undergraduate and postgraduate courses.
